

■ CURRENT ■ MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS

In addition to delivering training, education, certification preparation and timely information, RSES has negotiated reduced rates on a wide selection of goods and services for members and their families.

RSES JOURNAL

A subscription to the official monthly magazine of RSES – RSES Journal – which is the HVACR industry's leading source of technical information for contractors and service technicians.

SERVICE APPLICATION MANUAL

SAM is the HVACR's industry's original technical service manual, containing authoritative information on HVACR service, installation, maintenance, application, and design. Access to the hundreds of SAM chapters currently available online is a significant member benefit.

WEBINARS

Improve skills with the RSES Webinar Series, designed to augment RSES' many other in-depth training programs, webinars feature industry experts presenting on a variety of topics. Free monthly webinars are geared to help individuals with technical information they can apply on the job. Also, archived webinars since April 2013 are available under the member-only section of the website.

ONLINE HVACR TRAINING

Enjoy member discounts on RSES eLearning courses. Build your success online while earning CEUs and NATE CEHs.

NATE-RECOGNIZED TRAINING COURSES

North American Technician Excellence has recognized the Technical Institute Training Manuals 1, 2 and 3 and many other RSES training courses and events. Technicians who successfully complete one or more of these courses, or approved events, will receive credit toward renewing their NATE certification.

RSES TECHNICAL INSTITUTE

The Technical Institute is a comprehensive course of study designed to help members who desire to attain the highest levels of technical competency. Upon joining RSES, student members are inducted as Student (Student Technician) and individual members are inducted as a Level I (Technician). Individual members have the opportunity to advance levels through course participation or by passing required exams.

CERTIFICATE AND SPECIALIST MEMBERSHIP

Specialized Member, Certificate Member and Certificate Member Specialist are classifications of RSES membership. Exclusive to RSES members (with the exception of student members), these designations are earned after passing rigorous examinations.

Once becoming a SM, CM or CMS you will receive a handsome wall certificate, recognition in RSES Journal, the right to add initials SM, CM or CMS to your name and advancement in the RSES Technical Institute. Carrying SM, CM or CMS status signifies to customers, employers and the entire industry your knowledge and commitment to excellence and improvement.

RSES JOURNAL ARCHIVES

Only members have free unlimited online access to features and technical articles in RSES Journal since December 1995. Archived topics include tips on servicing, maintaining and troubleshooting commercial and residential HVACR equipment.

MSAC HOTLINE

The Manufacturers Service Advisory Council is an exclusive feature of RSES Journal. The MSAC is comprised of longtime industry experts who answer technical questions submitted by readers. Members enjoy free access to this benefit in the magazine and online.

CHAPTER TRAINING PROGRAMS

Some chapter training programs are based on the Technical Institute Training Manuals 1, 2 and 3, which provide an extensive course of study for those who desire to attain CM status.

Other chapter training programs may be based on training courses that are available at discounted prices to members covering topics such as controls, electricity, heating, refrigeration and air conditioning, and heat pumps. Programs vary by chapter, contact your local chapter for more details.
